

and later on other inspectors to test his scales. Kinkor sandwiches to the traveling and a fourth crew of called to inspect his from a restaurant side. inspectors came to inspect from a sanitary standard on, his premises were to find out whether he without a license. Others appeared to see if nery on his premises was guarded. His premises her inspected as to the tion, and another inspected as to the electric wiring premises and then came y inspectors and finally inspectors showed up.

different inspections of en's premises while they the once over and many inspections occur twice in inspectors generally traveling. They probably get from en dollars a day and their It would seem that it is some for these inspectors and the state of Wisconsin in Ford coupes alone magnificent highways, state must pay the cost of nship of these poor overervants of the people.

Kinkor's premises needed inspection in order to protect the public why couldn't one up-to-date he-man have done kind of work at one visit his report to the various at Madison? There can be that the inspection would have been just as satisfactory, the political results being machine world have

C. H. HOLST DIES AT HOME AT MISHICOT

Well Known Business Man of County Ill For Long Time

C. H. Holst, widely known pioneer merchant of Manitowoc county, died at the family home at Mishicot at 3:30 this morning, death following an illness of many months. Mr. Holst underwent an operation last summer in a final effort to regain his health but the hope proved futile. The funeral will be held at Mishicot Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with service at St. Peter's Lutheran church, the Rev. Zell officiating.

Founded Business in 1890

Born in Germany April 1, 1853 Mr. Holst came to America with his parents as a babe. The family took up its home in Calumet county and there he grew to manhood. For a time he taught in the public schools and then engaged in business at New Holstein. He was married to Miss Augusta Hintz Behnke and in 1890 the family moved to Mishicot where he established the Holst Sons' Company, a general store business from which he